Yes, Riverside Resort used to be KOA.

This is what we have been calling Bakers Bridge which is about ¼ to ½ mile below the actual bridge. According to the KOA website, there is not a KOA located on or even that close to the Animas

The river slows down some and deposits more sediment by the time it gets to the KOA. Access to the river is easy there, but you need to stop by their office to get permission.

located at Durango Riverside Resort and RV Park just below Bakers Bridge. Can anyone confirm that?
